Hey Crazy Diamond!!!

Auspicious greetings, Ali! You are a a marvel to behold, and I missed your spritely presence this semester, having the great fortune last semester of your TA'ing for me. Congrats on getting into U of Colorado!! This will be a splendid new place to launch your next stage from. I am proud to have been one of your professors, and I hope you will stay in touch as you continue your spiral to the mountain summit.

You are by the way a remarkably gifted writer and should build confidence to use this gift frequently and let it be wind beneath your wings. Do not hesitate, and forge ahead with efforts to publish things as you create them, because as doors open for you you will unfold the power of written language. I enjoy all your quotes in this letter, and thanks for letting me receive it!

If there is anything in the coming weeks I can do to assist you, please let me know. By the way your reference letters from me are archived to use again for any further ventures, and you should try getting a general letter from me to whom it may concern to add to your portfolio.

So, in the coming weeks I pray you will exude joy and ebullience of good energy and lovingkindness, already some of the Four Immeasurables you have been blessed with. I'm sure to see you sometime soon, but in any case let me know of any events or other chances to participate in this exciting--yes, very auspicious-- time unfurling before you.

Tashi talek (I salute the divine being in you),
Brett

Ali,

I still lament the fact that your masterful talent for word-play and creative linguistics was never specifically devoted to its own worship, but alas, each must follow a new randomness and glory. I regret that I will not be able to attend the culturally constructed ceremony of your matriculation (though I would be thrilled to go canoeing afterward). I will, si deu permette (I still can't spell in French), be taking an intern-ship with a climbing magazine in Jackson, WY for the summer. You should certainly come and visit. I have made note of your summer phone number and plan to use it (mine is 406-581-4921)I hope you will do the same. I will that your pomp and circumstance meet with your every expectation and you persona continues to match the beauty of your expression.

Fellicitations,
Adam

Congratulations on grad school at UC Boulder! What is your program? As for the final, I hope the previous email is explanatory

Your essay would be a great addition to Prism because it would be a bit of a change--it is scholarly yet wry and communicates important info about women in the early church with a nice twist. If you've axed it, Joanne could scan it quickly into a Word document (if I ask her nicely)..and if you have the time to mess with it this late in the year. You could, if you wanted, deal with it off and on during summer & we could include it in next year's--we like to use stuff from grads since we can say "Allison Schultz wrote this for blah blah course while at UWEC and has since gone on to graduate studies at blah blah"--so we get to brag about you, in other words.

I've enjoyed your presence in my classes--you are creative and very intelligent--always a gift for a teacher.
